Public Notice

June 27, 2005

The Public Workshop scheduled for July 13, 2005 regarding Quail Valley Area Septic Systems and Sewer Service is postponed to October 2005.

At the June 6, 2005 Public Meeting at the Quail Valley Volunteer Fire Station, residents of Quail Valley expressed concerns regarding the feasibility of providing sewer service to the area, including the cost of connection to the sewers for homeowners in the area. The Eastern Municipal Water District is currently conducting a study to determine the feasibility and approximate costs of providing sewer service to the area. This study is expected to be completed by the end September 2005. The Public Workshop that was scheduled for July 13, 2005 is being postponed in order to include a discussion of the findings from this study.

We are proposing to conduct a Public Workshop in October 2005 to discuss the findings of the feasibility study, environmental issues, the proposed septic system prohibition for the area, and to get public input related to these issues. You will be notified of the place, date and time once the details of this meeting are confirmed.
